Dear Sirs,

Installation of Photovoltaic Solar panels

We are delighted that the installation has been completed and we are now “contributing” to the national grid.

We are deeply suspicious of schemes that seem too good to be true, but the explanation given by your sales adviser as to why PV panel should work for us was excellent. The description of why the scheme exists and how it works was essential before we were prepared to commit money to it.

Once we understood the very favourable financial implications, the most important issue was creating our own electricity at a time when prices seem to be spiralling out of control. We hope that within the 25 year life of the Feed-in-tariff scheme, a way will be discovered to store home generated electricity, meanwhile we feel that we have a huge measure of protection against rising electricity prices as well as a good index-linked investment.

The installation process was excellent, and having made a substantial investment it was good to have such competent professionals on site to set it all up,

Thank you very much,

Yours sincerely,

R. S.
